THE WESLEYAN ALUMNAE

Dedication Day, May 12

DEDICATION DAY, MAY 12

Since the 1880's, when George I. Seney of New York gave to Wesleyan her first large gift of money, $125,000, May 12, his birthday, has been known as "Benefactor's Day".

It was thought appropriate, therefore, that the benefactors who helped to save Wesleyan during the recent financial crisis should be honored on Seney's birthday, or Benefactor's Day.

A beautiful and impressive ceremony expressing the appreciation of Wesleyan to her benefactors, the givers of both large and small gifts, will be held on the Rivoli campus on May 12, beginning at 11:00 A.M.

Bishop Moore to Speak

Some time before Bishop Moore became president of Wesleyan, he was selected as speaker for the Dedication Ceremonies, scheduled at first to be held last fall. The Alumnae magazine of May, 1941, said of Bishop Moore: "From the earliest days of his ministry he has held audiences with his impassioned messages. Always, when he is to speak, crowds overflow the auditorium, and his words stir his listeners as those of few men can do."

The date for the Dedication was postponed because of defense work in the foundry where the memorial ablets were being made, but the choice of the Committee in charge of arrangements was still Bishop Moore, and he graciously consented to make the address, in spite of responsibilities as president of Wesleyan, added to his already heavy duties in the church.

Program to be Given Outdoors

The ceremony of dedication is to be held on the Rivoli campus in front of the Candler Memorial Library. The audience will be seated facing the entrance to the library, and the speaker will stand on the porch of the building.

On a raised platform on the library lawn will be the members of the chorus, Wesleyan college and conservatory girls, directed by Professor Ralph Ewing of Wesleyan Conservatory. Mr. Ewing has been training the chorus for some weeks at both institutions.

The department of Physical Education, under the direction of Miss Mildred Cartledge, will present a series of tableaux which will symbolize the unveiling of the 129 tablets at Wesleyan college and conservatory. The green and bronze colors in the costumes which the girls taking part in this ceremony will wear match the shades in the tablets themselves.

Lunch in the College Dinning Room

Guests are invited to lunch in the college dining room at 1:30, following the exercises of the morning.

Alumnae committees have been announced in the magazine, including committees for invitations, arrangements, transportation, decoration, music, luncheon, and programs.

Wesleyan students will act as guides to direct visitors to the tablets in various parts of the buildings. The tablets range in size from those 4½ by 9 inches which mark the dormitory rooms in honor of those who "repurchased" them for Wesleyan (or of those who were their inspiration) to the large library tablet with a list of 450 names of those whose gifts repurchased the books.

Elsewhere in this magazine will be found the names which appear on the tablets and the donors. Although these names represent gifts of $100 or more, it must be remembered that the ceremonies of May 12 will honor all contributors to the recent Wesleyan campaign, whether their gifts were large or small. A complete list of alumnae who had a part in the campaign appeared in The Wesleyan Alumnae for February, 1941.

Alumnae Day, May 12

DR. Y. C. YANG,
Alumnae Day Speaker

The annual meeting of the Wesleyan Alumnae Association, usually held at Commencement, will be held this year at 2:30 P.M., May 12. Mark that date on your calendar and make your plans to come back to your Alma Mater for this "double feature", "Benefactors' Day", with its program in the morning, and "Alumnae Day", with its program in the afternoon.

Dr. Y. C. Yang to Speak in Afternoon

Since the outstanding event of the Alumnae year will be the unveiling of the portrait of Madame Chiang Kai-Shek (May-ling Soong), which alumnae gifts to China made possible, Sue (Tanner) McKenzie and her Alumnae Board have spent much of the spring trying to get as a speaker for the occasion some prominent Chinese, or someone familiar with the situation in China.

It was Bishop Arthur Moore, with his first-hand knowledge of China and its people, who suggested Dr. Y. C. Yang, leader in educational and diplomatic circles in his country, and known as a delightful speaker.

Dr. Yang is president of Soochow University. He ranks as one of the capable leaders of modern China. Descended from one of the first families of China, he came as a young man to America and was a student at the University of Wisconsin and Georgetown University. After his graduation he returned to China and entered the diplomatic service of his nation. He was for a time stationed in London and later in Washington. As the first secretary of Dr. Wellington Koo, he played an important role in the Chinese delegation at the League of Nations in Geneva.

After his years in the diplomatic service, Dr. Yang was drafted as president of Soochow University by the Methodist Church in China. For 15 years he has served most effectively in that important position. The university is modern in every respect, with a large campus and beautiful buildings and a student body numbering more than a thousand.

When the Japanese invaded Eastern China, they occupied the grounds and buildings of the university. The home of President Yang was destroyed as were other buildings by the invaders. The faculty and most of the students took refuge in the international settlement in Shanghai, and there the university resumed its operations. In cooperation with three other Christian universities the work has gone on until December, 1941, when the Japanese took possession of the international settlement.

One of Influential Group of Chinese Christians

Dr. Yang is one of that small but influential group of Christian leaders in China who have helped to lift China to the position of a modern nation. He is at present a post-graduate student in the Union Theological Seminary in New York City. He is well known throughout the Southland because on many of his visits to America he has spoken to large audiences representing Soochow University, the historic institution which was founded and supported by the Methodists of the South. He recently delivered the Quillian lectures at Emory University and spoke to large audiences. He has also been invited to Duke University, Drew University, and many other educational institutions of America.

Possessed of a charming personality, a brilliant mind and a most unusual command of the English language, Dr. Yang is a speaker of extraordinary ability.

Bishop Moore Speaks During Religious Emphasis Week

Twice daily during the week of March 2, Bishop Arthur Moore, president of Wesleyan, spoke to the students on the personal experience of God as available, and essential, to every person for the living of the full, satisfying life.

After his first service, Bishop Moore changed the place of meeting from the auditorium in the gymnasium to the more informal atmosphere of the parlor in Olive Swann Porter building, where girls crowded the room every morning and evening to hear Bishop Moore who, like the first president of Wesleyan, "never speaks to a listless audience, and never fails to fill a house."

In the afternoons of the week, Bishop Moore met informally with students individually to talk with them about their own faith. Attendance on the services was voluntary, and students themselves arranged the interviews.

Bishop Moore received many letters from the girls' parents who had in the past found comfort and inspiration through his messages. Typical of these was one which said, "Teach my girl what are the really important things in life."

It was a week which the Wesleyan girls who were fortunate enough to experience it as students will never forget.

Gifts to the Historical Collection

Among the souvenirs of old Wesleyan days which have come to Wesleyan recently is a commencement program of 1882, the gift of M. Katharine Neal of Atlanta, A.B. 1886. The especial interest for her was the name of her cousin, the late Leila M. Tigner of White Sulphur Spring, Ga., later Mrs. C. H. Johnson, who read an essay, "Georgia's Resources."

Other names on the program include: Annie (Persons) Avery, salutatory; Emma C. Tabor, essay on "Keys and Candles"; Dollie (Tarver) Bull, essay, "What I Would Be"; solos by Gussie (Jones) Winn and Susie (Bonnell) Stone; Mamie (Terrell) Atchison, essay "A Day-Dream"; Mary Harrison, solo and valedictory; Mary Troutman, essay, "Time Reveals the Gold as Well as the Foil of Character"; Janie (Vanderipe) Wyley, essay, "Florida"; Gussie (Jones) Winn, essay, "Invisible Nets"; Belle (Williams) Durrance, essay, "Dread of Singularity"; Victoria (Williams) Wilkerson, essay, "God Made Him, Therefore Let Him Pass for a Man"; Mamie (Willis) Battle, essay, "Weaving."

Alumnae Council Meets

The Alumnae Council, made up of the national officers, class secretaries, and club presidents of the Alumnae Association, met at the college on Saturday, March 28, Sue (Tanner) McKenzie presiding.

Financial Status of Wesleyan

Vice-President Silas Johnson told this group about the financial status of the college. He gave a concise summary of the situation which alumnae found understandable and encouraging, the optimistic note being based on facts and not on "wishful thinking."

Curriculum Changes

Dean S. L. Akers told of recent curriculum changes, of the closer contact between college and conservatory, of new majors and new degrees being offered. (A "Pre-View" of the catalog, recently off the press, tells of these and will be sent on request.) Dean Annabel Horn of the conservatory, told of progress there.

Relief to China

Sue (Tanner) McKenzie told of the success of the campaign for Relief to China by the alumnae, and of sending $2,200 to the headquarters for China Relief. She received, for the Alumnae Association, an award of recognition, signed by Madame Chiang Kai-Shek. The portrait of May-ling Soong Chiang will be unveiled on May 12, when the alumnae will hold their annual meeting with Dr. Y. C. Yang as speaker.

Clubs and Scholarships

Lucia (Chappell) Domingos, vice-president in charge of clubs, spoke on what the alumnae clubs of other colleges are doing in these trying times. Rosaline (Jenkins) Gilmore, treasurer, told about how colleges are financed in such times. Sarah Jones, vice-president in charge of high school relations, talked on scholarships given by other colleges and how they are administered, and Eunice Thomson, alumnae editor, told of the scholarships which Wesleyan alumnae have given during the past decade.

Linda (Anderson) Lane announced the May 12 plans. Presidents of alumnae clubs made reports of their year's work.

Immediately following the morning session, luncheon was served to the guests in the faculty dining room at Wesleyan, and following the afternoon session, tea in the student parlors.

Willie Snow Ethridge for Alumnae Trustee

By Willie (Erminger) Mallary, A.B. 1907

Recently a phone call came while I was sick in bed. I didn't know to whom the cook was talking, but I could tell from her part in the conversation that I was about to be asked to "do something."

Just the day before I had made a mental vow that I would not undertake another thing, so I had my answer all ready before she left the phone, and the answer was a most emphatic "NO." But when I heard that the Alumnae Office wanted me to write about Willie Snow Ethridge I not only changed my "no" to "yes" but sent word that I would be DELIGHTED.

I am very happy indeed that Willie is to be our Alumnae Trustee for I sincerely believe if Wesleyan continues to elect a trustee from the alumnae each year for the next one hundred years that they will never find one who more perfectly exemplifies the virtues for which Wesleyan stands.

Brilliant, but modest; witty, yet never unkind; scintilating, charming, appreciative, loyal, she will as a trustee continue to reflect credit on her Alma Mater as she has constantly done since entering college as a student.

Willie is exceedingly versatile; she has succeeded not only in the field of literature, but is a gifted teacher, a successful wife and mother, is charming socially, and is a magnetic speaker.

I first knew her well in 1928 when I took a course under her at Mercer. She was a stimulating teacher who was able to criticise without discouraging. Though she was teaching a class of mixed sexes and greatly divergent ages her clear, quick, analytical mind kept us interested and on the alert constantly.

Since then I have watched her progress with the keenest interest and have been pleased to see that she has been able to keep the enthusiasm and spontaneity of youth while she was acquiring the breadth and depth of maturity.

In her two books "As I Live and Breathe" and "I'll Sing One Song" where we see her and her family so intimately we discern the qualities that make her a successful wife and mother. In spite of the many hours required to write books, and the tax that her many personal and professional engagements make on her time and strength, she always finds time for her husband and her children. In all she says and writes her pride in them and her affectionate interest in all they do is obvious though disguised with such charming humor.

So often writers are poor speakers but not so with Willie; she is able to charm a group of college girls as I heard her recently do at Wesleyan, and she so pleases the Press Conventions that she is often invited to speak to them. In 1941 when she spoke to The National Council of English Teachers at their banquet in Atlanta her speech was broadcast over the radio. I heard it in Macon. John Erskine followed her on the program and when he rose to speak he said that he hated to follow her as he had never heard a brighter, more delightful speech. In February 1942 she spoke to a convention in San Francisco, California.

Most of us do not know that her name is listed in "Who's Who." They give the high lights of her life, name her three books "As I Live and Breathe," "Mingled Yarn," and "I'll Sing One Song"; then add this additional information: that she is on the board of trustees of Lincoln Institute, Frankfort, Ky., a member of the Louisville Woman's Club, Arts Club, Pendennis, Country Club and River Valley; also on the board of the Louisville Visiting Nurses Association.

All of this yet another honor is coming to her soon!

On May 29th the University of Kentucky will confer on her an honorary degree of "Doctor of Literature."

"Kingfisher Cabin" Moved to Wesleyan Campus

HARRY STILLWELL EDWARDS
Author and Gentleman, Friend of Wesleyan.

"Kingfisher Cabin," famous woodland study of the late Harry Stillwell Edwards, Georgia author, is now the property of Wesleyan College, having been moved to the campus from his Holly Bluff home at the wish of members of the Edwards family.

In this rustic cabin Mr. Edwards wrote many of his stories and articles for his column, "Coming Down My Creek" in the Atlanta Journal. It was named "Kingfisher Cabin" because, like the bird who lives along the bank of the creek and dips into the water to bring out choice morsels, Mr. Edwards thought of himself as dipping into the passing scene and bringing out bits of humor and fact for his reading public. The blue with which the cabin is trimmed he always called "Kingfisher Blue."

Since the death of Mr. Edwards in 1938 in his 84th year, the cabin has stood as he left it at Holly Bluff. Recently the family decided to give it to Wesleyan because of Mr. Edwards' love for the college. It was at first thought that it could be moved intact, but when this was found impossible, photographs were made of it from every angle, logs were numbered in order that they might be replaced at Wesleyan exactly as they were at Holly Bluff. The site chosen at Wesleyan closely resembles the original site, even to a small stream running nearby.

Dedication by Rotary Club

On Sunday afternoon, March 29 the Rotary Club, holding its state convention at Wesleyan during spring holidays, had charge of exercises dedicating the cabin. Mr. Edwards was an honorary member of the Rotary Club.

Mr. William D. Anderson of the Wesleyan Board of Trustees, was master of ceremonies. Dr. Guy Wells, District Governor of Georgia Rotary, spoke on "Harry Stillwell Edwards, the Man and the Rotarian." Mr. Charles J. Haden of Atlanta, who was to have given his "Memories of Harry Stillwell Edwards" was unable to be present. Mr. J. Clay Murphey of Macon made the formal presentation of the cabin.

Mary Lane Edwards, granddaughter of the author, who was christened at Wesleyan on the opening day on the new campus, gave the keys to Vice-President Silas Johnson, who accepted them with words of deep appreciation. Wesleyan has many reminders of the affection which Harry Stillwell Edwards felt for it through the years, among them his moving plea for education, "The Tenth Generation," which was written for this college. It is appropriate that the cabin where many of his articles about Wesleyan were written should be on the Wesleyan campus as a shrine for admirers of the creator of "Eneas Africanus."

Members of the "Edwards Clan" who were introduced to the audience were: Mr. and Mrs. Jackson L. Edwards, Sr. ("Jack," oldest son); Roxilane Edwards (daughter, and alumna of Wesleyan); Mrs. Prentiss Edwards (daughter-in-law, formerly Miss Emily Brown, alumna of Wesleyan); Mr. and Mrs. Rosser Smith (the former Nelle Edwards, granddaughter, honor graduate of Wesleyan); Lieutenant and Mrs. Jackson L. Edwards, Jr. (grandson, with the armed forces); Mr. and Mrs. James B. Felmet, Jr. (formerly Virginia Edwards, granddaughter); Harry Stillwell Edwards (granddaughter and namesake, member of the present freshman class at Wesleyan); Mary Lane Edwards (granddaughter); Prentiss Edwards, Jr. and Crawford Edwards (grandsons); Rosser Malone Smith (great-grandson).

Wesleyan Scholarships Awarded on "Dormitory Day"

Wesleyan held the tenth "Dormitory Day" on April 18 this year, entertaining hundreds of high school senior girls for a week-end as guests in the college and conservatory. A program including sports, a tour of the college and conservatory and a tour of Macon, a riding exhibition, brief talks by the dean and by student leaders, a tea, a picnic supper, and a pajama party filled the day and night.

Scholarship Winners

For the first time the college competitive examinations were given on Dormitory Day, one hour after lunch being allotted to these examinations which were in the form of aptitude tests. The conservatory tests and radio auditions for scholarships were held at the same hour

Winners were:

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

First Prize—Anne Cole, Chattanooga High School, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Second Prize—Rebekah Yates, Plant High School, Tampa, Fla.

Third Prize—Echo Patterson, Cuthbert, Ga. (Daughter of Ruth Sears Patterson, A.B. 1923.)

Fourth Prize—Shirley Mullen, Washington Seminary, Atlanta, Ga.

SCHOOL OF FINE ARTS

Voice—Virginia Larsen, Jacksonville, Fla.

Piano—June Collins, Montezuma, Ga.

Art—Thelma Brownell, Jacksonville, Fla.

Speech—Idella Petry, Jacksonville, Fla.

Brasses—Billy Whittemore, Atlanta, Ga.

Judges for the college competitive were pleased to note that the group which took the test was made up of many superior students, as shown by the fact that their rating was considerably higher than the national norm recorded for this test.

Briefs from the Clubs

Atlanta

The Atlanta Club, with Eleanor (Atkinson) Stillwell as president, is as busy as always. The club has redecorated two rooms at the Conservatory for the speech department, and members of the club came down for a performance of "Brief Music" by students of the department recently and were honored at "open house" in the rooms immediately after the show.

Kay (Bailey) Burts has done a fine piece of work in getting speaking engagements in the various Atlanta high schools for Wesleyan faculty members.

At the Alumnae Council meeting at Wesleyan in March, Robert (Graham) Warner told of recent activities of the club. Ella (Parker) Leonard, club registrar, brought corrected lists of two groups to the Alumnae office. Robert (Graham) Warner and Annie (Hyer) Coleman made a trip to the Conservatory after the Council meeting to see the rooms redecorated by the club.

Augusta

The Augusta club, with Elaine (Goodson) Osteen as president, had a delightful tea for high school and junior college seniors at the home of Elizabeth Jones on April 10. Sue (Moore) LeRoy was chairman of the program, and arranged for Miss Katharine Johnson, dean of women at Wesleyan, and five Wesleyan students to be honor guests for the occasion.

Columbus

The alumnae in Columbus, with Patsy (Howard) Long as president, has allied itself with the Red Cross in defense work at its meetings instead of having its former literary programs. The club is still most active in interesting high school students in Wesleyan, and brought a large group of girls to Dormitory Day.

Dublin

The Dublin club, with Annie (Simons) Smith as president, has the following new officers: Leah Kittrell, secretary; Ruth (Broadhurst) Peacock, treasurer.

At a meeting held at the home of the president in March Lucy (Stanley) McArthur played two of her own compositions: "Love Song," dedicated to Eugenia (Rawls) Seawell, young Dublin girl and Wesleyan alumnae who has won fame on the stage; and "Margaret by the Window," inspired by the painting by that title by the celebrated painter of children, Edward Dufner. Mr. Dufner has two paintings of children in the Wesleyan collection of contemporary art.

Jacksonville, Fla.

Jacksonville alumnae held an informal meeting at the home of Elizabeth (Brogden) Tart in March, when Vice-President Slas Johnson of Wesleyan and Jennie Loyall, Alumnae Secretary, were in the city briefly and could be with the club and bring them recent news of Wesleyan.

The club was at the time making preparations for their annual tea for high school seniors. Mary Miller is president of the club.

LaGrange

Loula (Callaway) Albright, A.B. '37, was elected new president of the LaGrange Wesleyan Club at their recent meeting held at the home of Eleanor (Dallis) Stallings.

Mary (Park) Polhill, Alumnae Trustee, and Jewel (Faver) Glass represented the club at the Council Meeting at Wesleyan in March.

Macon

Annie (Gantt) Anderson was elected president of the Wesleyan Club of Macon in March, succeeding Marie (Adams) Timmerman, whose two-year term of office expired this year.

The Macon club's main activities this year have been helping with the Relief to China drive, in which they secured and raised money for their four scholarships to Wesleyan College and Conservatory which are offered at Miller High School each year.

Thomson

One of the most enthusiastic reports given at the Alumnae Council meeting was that of Rosaline (Jenkins) Gilmore, president of the Thomson Wesleyan Club about the club's sponsorship of a talk by Mrs. Arthur J. Moore, wife of the president of Wesleyan.

Rosaline, with the good help of other alumnae in Thomson, invited alumnae in surrounding towns, and had a good crowd to hear Mrs. Moore, charming speaker, in March. This is the second big program the two-year-old club has sponsored, last year's being a musical program by Mrs. Doris Jelks and Linda (Anderson) Lane.

Washington, D. C.

The Washington, D. C. club, with Agnes Leverette as president, has had a number of interesting meetings during the year, among them a dinner at the Fairfax Hotel, luncheon meetings in January and in April. Among the speakers they have had are: Mrs. Dawson Olmstead, past president of the D. C. branch of the National League of Pen Women, and Miss Frederick of the office of Civil Defense. Reports of the work of the club came in from Frances (Rice) Warlick, secretary of the club.

In the Service of Our Country

In the last alumnae magazine appeared a list of Wesleyan alumnae and their relatives who are serving in the armed forces. Below are additions to that list. We expect to add to it in each issue, and shall appreciate hearing from every alumna about members of her family who are in active duty for our country.

We have found it impossible to attempt a list of the many Wesleyan alumnae who are in voluntary defense work, but some of these may be found in the class notes.

As the magazine goes to press news comes of the loss at sea of Admiral John W. Wilcox, brother of Minnie (Wilcox) Anderson, '86, Clifford Wilcox, '89, and Marie (Wilcox) Dunlap, '92. No details of the tragedy were given by the Navy Department in its announcement. Deepest sympathy is extended to members of the family.

Wesleyan Alumnae Instructs British Fliers

Hazel Raines, Conservatory '36, is now in England as an officer in the RAF, instructing fledgling fliers for combat duty.

Hazel first began her lessons in flying four years ago at the age of 20, and was one of the few women in the United States chosen as an instructor in the Civilian Pilot Training program. She was instructor at Ft. Lauderdale, Florida aviation school when a call came from Jacqueline Cochran, America's No. 1 woman pilot, asking if she would be available to join 24 other picked American aviatrixes as flight instructors in the Royal Air Force. She left in March for Canada and later the British Isles on her new commission.

With the world paying tribute to General Douglas MacArthur, veterans of the first World War recall with pride his leadership of the 84th Infantry Brigade of the 42nd (Rainbow) Division in France in 1918.

Among the officers under his command was Lieutenant-Colonel Cooper D. Winn, son of the late Lila (Jones) Winn, A.B. '76, nephew and step-son of Gussie (Jones) Winn, A.B. '82. The Rainbow Division was in almost constant contact with the enemy, and has received wide acclaim for its valor and success in battle. Colonel Winn was recommended for the Distinguished Service Cross by General MacArthur himself.

Another son is Colonel Dean Winn of the Medical Corps, in charge of hospitals in ten army posts. He is stationed in Boston, Mass.

Robert M. Gamble, son of the late Annie (McKay) Gamble, is a lieutenant in the navy, now in the Naval Officer Procurement section in Charlston. He is a brother of Mary Gamble, '27.

1886

Blanche (Hall) Neel's son, Roland Hall Neel, is a captain in the Home Guard of Macon. Blanche's son, Joseph N. Neel, Jr., was the first Macon boy to be killed in the last war, and the Macon Post of the American Legion is named in his honor.

Chloe (Smith) Hutchinson has two grandsons who are first lieutenants in the army.

The late Emma (Wise) Hall's son, Basil, is with the U. S. Marines at Parris Island, S. C.

1892

Marie (Wilcox) Dunlap's sons are in the army, Captain Kinlock Dunlap, Jr. at Camp Wheeler and Corporal William H. Dunlap at Jackson. They are nephews of Minnie (Wilcox) Anderson, '86 and of Clifford Wilcox, '89.

1893

Edith (Pierce) Alfriend's son, Edward, is in the army.

1895

Marion (Hays) Ainsworth's son, Harry, is a corporal in the 303rd Coast Artillery Barrage Balloon Battalion located on the Pacific coast.

Orville A. Park, Jr., son of Elmyr (Taylor) Park and Mr. O. A. Park, donor of the Georgia Collection in the Wesleyan library, is a lieutenant (J. G.) in the navy. He is a brother of Elmyr (Park) Currie, '28.

Emma (Albertson) Brewer's son is a captain in the army.

May (Kennedy) Hall's son, Ensign B. Campbell Hall, received a citation from the commander of the Pacific fleet for "heroism, courage, devotion to duty, and gallant conduct" in the battle of Pearl Harbor.

Bessie (Napier) Bonner's son, Emmett Peyton, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant (J. G.) in the navy, and is now with the Atlantic fleet. Another son, Edward Napier, just graduated at the University of Georgia, is a lieutenant, now at Camp Lee, Virginia.

Lula (Houser) Driskell's son, Lieutenant M. Morgan Driskell, is in the medical corps at the Naval Air Base, Pensacola, Fla. Her two sons-in-law are: Major John M. Caldwell, psychiatrist at Walter Reed Hospital; Colonel M. W. Smith, with Vick Chemical Company, New York.

1904

Clare (Boifeuillet) Jones' son, Lieutenant Albert Bruce Jones, is now at Camp Polk, La. He is a grandson of the late Clara (Nutting) Boifeuillet, A.B. 1879.

Fannie (Winship) Haskell's son, George Owens Haskell, is a first lieutenant in the Ordnance Department at Ft. Jackson, S. C. His wife is Frances (Houser) Haskell, '38, daughter of Nora (Taylor) Houser, '09.

1905

Estelle (Bunn) Gibson's son is in the air corps.

Maud (Slappey) Souder's son, Lieutenant R. C. Souder, Jr., was sent to Ft. Benning, Ga. recently for additional training.

Mary (Westbrook) Kline's son is in the navy, with the Atlantic fleet.

A brother of Annabel Horn, '06, and Vernon Horn, '07, is in the regular army, a professor at the U. S. Naval Academy in Annapolis. His mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Raiford Horn, is this year living at Wesleyan, her daughter Annabel being dean of Wesleyan Conservatory.

The late Johnnie (Logan) Lewis' son, Logan Lewis, is a lieutenant in the navy, and reported for duty recently at Sixth Naval District Headquarters in Charleston, S. C.

Georgia (Thomas) Steadman has a son in the navy.

Edna (Briggs) Johnson's son enlisted in June, '41, in the air corps. He was at first stationed at the Orlando Air Base,

The Wesleyan Alumnae Office is eager to get, for its permanent records, a brief biographical record of every student since the college opened, and will be most appreciative if some relative will send us this information. As an example, here is the record of Catharine M. Stinson, graduate of Wesleyan in 1852, sent us by her daughter, M. Kate Neal, A.B. 1886:

This tablet is erected with affectionate esteem
by the Trustees of Wesleyan.
WILLIAM ROKENBAUGH ROGERS
Trustee 1915-1933

Love for Wesleyan was an inheritance from his father, and together they enriched it with their service through almost a century.

Devotion to Wesleyan was his master passion, a deathless devotion that will make deathless his memory.

Erected as a tribute to
THOMAS JEFFERSON STEWART
Builder, lover of church,
Champion of his beloved southland,
Trusted friend of Wesleyan,
Steadfast and true.

ROBERT JENKS TAYLOR
Philanthropist - Humanitarian
Trustee, 1933-1939

His patient guidance and superior wisdom entitle him to imperishable distinction as one of the foremost friends of Wesleyan.

Honored Trustee, 1932-1939
Dedicated in her memory
To beauty of character
To graciousness in living
To gentleness of spirit
And in appreciation of her
Generous devotion
To her Alma Mater

Catharine M. Stinson received the A.B. degree at Wesleyan in 1852. She married Forsyth Neal of Talbotton on May 15, 1856, and died August 29, 1876. Her children: Mattie E. Neal, student of art at Wesleyan in 1883, who married N. F. Jackson of Savannah and died on July 3, 1885; John Warner Neal, and Mary Katharine Neal, graduate of Wesleyan in 1886. John Warner Neal married Imogene Gillespie of Meriwether County, and both died in 1939. Their three surviving children are: Warner Neal of Columbus, William Stinson Neal of Atlanta, and Margaret Katharine Neal of Atlanta.

Valeria (Lamar) Clay of Macon, 95 years of age, died in February at the home of her son, Lamar Clay, Sr., in Macon. She was Macon's oldest active devotee of the sport of angling, and had been fishing as recently as a few weeks before her death.

1868

Wesleyan was distressed to learn of the death of her oldest graduate, Mary E. Royster, of Bloomfield, N. J., in February. Only a week before the Alumnae Office had had from this alumna a Bloomfield newspaper telling of a visit to her of a committee of Alpha Delta Pi, her fraternity, to present her with a pin as their oldest living member. Mary Royster kept close touch with her Alma Mater, and contacts with her were a source of inspiration to college officials, for she was unfailingly loyal, always alert and interested in the college today and plans for its future, despite her 93 years. A story in the Alumnae magazine of May, 1941, told of her college days during the War of the Sixties, of her life as a teacher in New York after the War, and of her home in Bloomfield with her two unmarried sisters, Marion and Josephine Royster. It was because of her love for Wesleyan that her sister-in-law, Mrs. Bernice S. Royster of Kansas City, Mo., made a special trip to the Rivoli campus several years ago to see the college.

In one of her last letters to Wesleyan Mary E. Royster said: "I rejoice that Wesleyan has secured such a personality as Bishop Arthur J. Moore for president." The telegram which came to Wesleyan announcing her death stated: "The greatest happiness which came to her in recent years was her contact with her Alma Mater."

Sue Patti Hartridge, one of the pioneer citizens of Jacksonville, Fla. She was a member of the Adelphean Society at Wesleyan, and afterward was a faithful member of the first U.D.C. chapter organized in Florida, the 19th in the United States. In 1934 she was elected honorary state president of the Florida division, U.D.C. For many years she served on the board of the Daniel Memorial Home, and of the Home for the Aged. She assisted in the groundwork leading to the first free library in Jacksonville. Her long and varied activities in fields of religion, charity, and education made her a widely known and loved person in her city. A brother, Judge A. G. Hartridge, four nieces and five nephews, survive.

Among the visitors to Wesleyan in March was a group from Grantville and Newnan who had come to Macon to attend a D.A.R. meeting and made a special trip to the college. Theopo (Bobo) Banks, in whose honor one of the dormitory rooms has been named by her son, William N. Banks, was the oldest in the group. She has had two daughters and four daughters-in-law to come to Wesleyan. Her daughters were Lucile Banks, now Mrs. G. H. Snead of Grantville, at Wesleyan in 1901, and Mary Frances Banks who was a student in 1907 and who died when she was only 19 years of age. The daughters-in-law include: Bessie (Cotton) Banks, 1901; the late Tommie (White) Banks, 1906; Evelyn (Wright) Banks, 1914, and Janie (Johnson) Banks. Janie has a daughter, Mary Ellen, who is planning to come to Wesleyan next fall.

Also in the group of Wesleyan visitors were: Love (Moreland) Leigh of the class of 1884, the first "life-time contributor" to the Wesleyan loyalty Fund; Bessie (Cotton) Banks, '01; Evelyn (Wright) Banks, '14; Mary (Branch) Arnold, '19; Janie (Johnson) Banks, '19, and two friends who, though not alumnae themselves, are "related" to Wesleyan by reason of the fact that members of their families have attended, Mrs. J. M. Cleveland of Grantville, and Mrs. T. E. Stribling, of Habersham.

Alice (Cheatham) James, very active in church work, makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. F. M. Carson in Reynolds.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Fannie (Gilmer) Dessau, class secretary and alumnae leader for many years,—to her daughter Geraldine (Dessau) Wheeler, with whom she lived, and to her granddaughter, Geraldine Wheeler, fourth generation alumna; and to her son, Washington Dessau, and his wife, Frances (Stevens) Dessau, and their daughter, Stevens, member of the present student-body; to her daughter, Cornelia (Dessau) McCall of Palatka; and to her son Gilmer of Memphis. She made her contribution to the recent campaign in memory of her mother, Geraldine Lamar Gilmer Bibb of the class of 1844; at the same time her children, Wash and Frances, used theirs to dedicate a room to her.

She was a charter member of the Vineville Church, the largest contributor to its first building; she was a president of the Woman's Society of the Monteagle Chataqua Assembly, having been nominated by Mrs. J. B. Cobb; she was an organizer and president of the Home Mission Society of South Georgia, and a member of the Woman's Board.

When Mrs. J. C. Hinton, a close friend for fifty years, wrote the history of the Vineville Missionary Society, she dedicated it as follows:

"As a tribute of love to a valued friend,
As a tribute of esteem to a faithful worker,
As a tribute of appreciation to a splendid leader,
As a tribute of honor to a pioneer
This sketch is dedicated to
Mrs. Fannie Gilmer Dessau."

1879

Sympathy is extended to Pearl (Napier) O'Daniel in the death of her brother, E. Trissilian Napier, realtor, of Macon, in March.

1881

Nannaline (Jordan) Barnett's husband died some years ago. She lives in a lovely old home in Washington, Ga. Her only son, Frank, Jr., lives in Atlanta. Nannaline and the late Anne (Trippe) Rambo were roommates at Wesleyan.

1884

Sympathy is extended to Mary Tombs (Jones) Cox of Waynesboro in the death of her husband last fall. She has two sons and a daughter.

1885

Mary L. (Leverette) Taliaferro makes her home in Eatonton, but usually spends the winters with relatives in Florida.

1886

Kate Neal and Emma O. Smith are working together as co-secretaries of the class, with excellent results. Emma has written to each classmate, and urges that those who have not responded send her some word of themselves for the next magazine.

Caroline (Branch) Fleming is a leading citizen of Cordele, very active in church and club work.

Virginia (Hill) Wilhoit is historian of Warren County. She makes her home in Warrenton where she is active in all civic affairs.

A most interesting letter came to Kate Neal from her old friend, Florence Irene Leonard, whose address is now Eltekeh Lodge, Manitou Springs, Colorado. She is a tireless worker, has traveled all over the world in her work as an evangelistic missionary. Now is in the states, she continues to spread her message of faith, and is at present in the midst of sending out 2,000 letters about her work. This bit from her letter will interest her friends and give an example of her indomitable spirit:

"Every day when the weather permits, I spend two or three hours putting up a wire fence which will surround eleven town lots. I am doing it entirely alone; nobody else has touched it. The posts are two feet underground and six feet above, and I have dug the post-holes with my garden trowel. At present I have 14 posts up, and have yet to put up 23. Now that the ground is frozen and I cannot dig the holes, I am painting them and tacking on the wire. Having to nail the top by standing on a stool, I often have ungraceful tumbles, but I am not one to be dismayed by trifles. The fence is necessary to keep out the deer which are more and more numerous each year, are unafraid and beautiful, but very destructive."

In answer to a letter from the Class Secretary to Chloe (Smith) Hutchinson of Monticello, there came a lovely letter from her husband. Chloe has not been in the best of health for several years, and although better now, depends on him to do her writing. He says: "Chloe carefully reads the Alumnae magazine, and especially of her class. She occasionally hears from Miss Neal, Miss Branham, and Mrs. Blanche (Hall) Neel. Perhaps you would like to hear of our family. We married February 9, 1888, which has been 54 years. We have a son living in Birmingham, Ala., married, but has no children. Our daughter, Fay, married Dr. Clay L. Dean and lives in Moultrie, Ga. They have two sons, both graduates of Auburn, and one daughter, Dorothy. One of the boys is married and has a little daughter three years old. So you see we are great-grandparents! Both the boys trained at Auburn R.O.T.C., then at Ft. Benning in the summers, and both are first lieutenants in the army. Chloe has her class badge with the names on it, and when our daughter comes home will have her look it up and send to you for Wesleyan."

A letter from Kate Neal recently tells of an incident so typically Southern and so touching that we must give it to you in her own words, although she had no idea of writing it for the magazine:

"Many years ago a good Negro woman came to us as a cook. She stayed with us 20 years. She was married on our front porch by our pastor, and she went in tears with her husband, saying to us, 'Mrs. Neal, if you ever need Jennie Mit night or day, jus' send for her.' She had a large family, all married now except her 'Baby Boy', 26 years old. She came to Atlanta today to see him before he goes to Ft. Benning to train for Uncle Sam, and to see 'Miss Kate', who she heard was sick.

They have just spent two hours with me, nobody being at home except the clock, the cat and me. I gave them some cake and candy, their car fare, and my good wishes. I told the soldier not to talk much, to obey orders, and to remember that he had a good mother and a good country, and that he had lived in the best part of the world; go and help save it! Jennie Mit was very brave about his going, and said, 'Of course he is coming back to me,' but there were tears in her eyes, and in mine, too!"

A recent letter from Minnie (Wilcox) Anderson who makes her home with her married daughter, Amelia, in East Falls Church, Va., says: "I have been making a screen of my Christmas cards. It is going to be lovely; I wish you could see it. Amelia and I have been enjoying grubbing in the garden this fine spring weather. Isn't it hard to realize that we must pass through another horror of war? My great-grandfathers were in the Revolution, my father's elder brothers killed in the Mexican war. My father and father-in-law were in the Civil War, my husband in the Spanish-American, my sons, nephews, and cousins in the last war (and you know that Wilcox, my son, gave his life then), and now my grandsons in this war! I recently had a nice letter from Minnie Rice, who had had a trip to Florida. I had a sweet visit from Blanche (Hall) Neel when I was in Macon last spring."

Dear Girls:

I am still hoping to have news from you. Tell me of your joys and sorrows. All of us have both. As I look over the list of our own group many memories come to me. So many have gone to that city not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. Don't you think that those of us who are left behind although scattered far and wide ought to hold together? If you do feel that way to me, won't you?

I have just come from Marie (Wilcox) Dunlap's home a few doors down the street. Clifford, her sister, came down from Atlanta for a visit, and to be in walking distance of St. Paul's church so that she might go to a service every day during Holy Week. Having heard just before I went that they had just had news of the death of their brother, Admiral John Wilcox, I expected to find a home of mourning. Instead I found two of the bravest, most poised women I have ever seen, true members of a naval officer's family. "We are glad to know that John was in the service of our country. For generations members of our immediate family have so served—ever since coming to America in 1636," Clifford said to the friends who gathered around her. "On his son's fourteenth birthday," she continued, "John said to him, 'We of the Navy never know what is ahead of us, but whatever happens to me, remember this: be prepared for the worst type of news—take it standing and without grief'."

"That is what we want to do," said Marie. "We can imagine John saying that to Arthur, and the son is doing that very thing in this hour when his father has left his post of duty here for higher service in the celestial world."

Will Cole Jones paid a beautiful tribute to his friend and classmate: "Those who have known him through the years remember that one of his mottoes was from the brave old ballad of Sir Patrick Spens:

'Be it wind, be it weet, be it hail, be it sleet,

Our ships must sail the foam.'

"Such was the mettle of John Wilcox, no hardship, no peril, no self-sacrifice ever daunted or disturbed him."

I count it an honor to be a friend of his three sisters who were Wesleyan girls, and of whom the college may well be proud. We have known one another for years. Clifford and Mother and I had a reading circle in the early days. The three of us met together for an hour each morning to read history, or classical works or whatever suited our fancy. Those were delightful hours. Clifford would tell you so. We speak of it whenever we meet. Mother loved and admired Clifford extravagantly in those far-away days. I am sure she would admire her still, and her sisters, in this trying time.

Lella A. Clark, Class Secretary.

Ella (Anderson) Winter's early married life was spent in Brunswick. She had three sons; the one living is chief engineer on the Bayline and Atlanta Railroad. One son, Thorwald, died in college while studying for the ministry. Ella is a member of the Independent Presbyterian Church in Savannah and is an active worker in the "King's Daughters".

Carrie (Hudson) Tate of Elberton died in March, 1941. She was the mother of 13 children, nine of whom survive her. One was killed in the first World War.

Sympathy is extended to Bessie (Walker) Evans in the death of her sister, Addie (Walker) Rhodes, of the class of 1894 on January 21.

Alice (Leverette) Collins was left a widow when her children were quite young. She has been teaching for years in Eatonton, and today is superintendent of one of the best schools in the state. She has three daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Clark of Dallas, Texas; Mrs. Bill Taylor of Dallas, and Miss Mary Collins, head of the French department at South Georgia College.

Agnes (Smith) Findlay, principal of one of the grammar schools in Waycross, is much loved by many children and adults whom she has taught through the years.

Lorena (Whelchel) Barksdale's husband was Ordinary of Wilkes County for many years. He died about two years ago. Lorena's daughter, Peggy (Barksdale) Reams, who was at Wesleyan in the class of 1925, lives now in Atlanta.

Claudia Little is one of Wesleyan's most enthusiastic boosters in Waycross, where she is a teacher in the schools. She is much interested in all the activities of her church.

Rosa (Talbot) Knight, widow of the Georgia historian, Lucien Lamar Knight, is at present living with a friend in Jesup, Ga. She is the author of a book on genealogy, and is listed in "Who's Who of American Women".

Maybelle (Bonnell) Poer spends her summers in West Point, Ga. and her winters with a daughter in Atlanta. Her husband, Dr. Poer, died several years ago.

The class will be grieved to learn of the death of Minnie (Bott) Mays in Winter Haven, Fla., in November, 1941.

Sympathy is extended to Mary Rix (Bryan) Lawrence in the death of her husband in February after an illness of two years.

Hattie (Murphy) Crowley is a widow. She lives in Waycross with a married daughter and her husband.

Edith (Pierce) Alfriend of Sparta is a widow, her greatest interest centering in her home and children: Lovick, Julia, Edward, Walter and Hamlin. All are grown and married except Edith and Hamlin.

Hattie (Jarvis) Kaigler's son, William Jarvis Kaigler, was a bugler in the first World War, and is now Adjutant of the American Legion in Bellingham, Washington. He married Miss Myrta Noon of Bellingham and they have one son, Jack Jarvis Kaigler, now eighteen years of age. Jack was in Alaska last summer working as timekeeper for the Pacific American Fisheries, largest canneries in the world. He is a graduate of the high school in Bellingham. Hattie is president of Kaigler's Business College in Macon.

Bessie Lawrence of Eatonton writes: "As much as I loved it, I gave up teaching music several years ago to dig in the dirt. Today I have a flower shop in my home. Aside from this I have ample time to take an active interest in the W.S.C.S., the W.C.T.U., and to do my bit for Red Cross. The Alumnae magazine gives me great pleasure, and I read it from cover to cover."

May (Goodman) Vickers is active in church work in Thomasville. She has several children and grandchildren, and has two little great-grandchildren.

Anna (Hamilton) Hunt is a widow, living in Cordele. She makes a hobby of her flowers, and grows lovely ones.

Marion (Hays) Ainsworth's daughter, Sally, was married recently to Richard Glass who is in charge of the United Press in Birmingham, Ala. Her son, Harry, is in the army.

Eva May (Murphy) Johnson of Waycross is rearing a young family, the son and daughter of her son whose wife died several years ago.

Nell Pringle is on the Board of the State Garden Clubs of Georgia. She is in real estate business in Thomasville, Ga.

Emma (Albertson) Brewer is a widow living in Douglas, Ga. Her children are all grown, and she has two grandchildren.

Kate (Johnson) Linton is the very efficient head of the production department of the Red Cross in Waycross.

Since the death of her husband several years ago, Anna (Wooten) Lanier has moved to the General Tyler Hotel in West Point, Ga. She is much loved in her home town, where she is called "Miss Anna" by everyone.

Mary Hamlin Alfriend lives with a brother in the old family home in Sparta, Ga.

1898

Anna (Carswell) Jones of Jeffersonville has with her now her daughter, Dorothy (Jones) Truslow and her little son, just returned from Pearl Harbor, where Lieut. Truslow is in the air corps.

1900

Lula (Houser) Driskell has two married daughters and two married sons: Mrs. John M. Caldwell, whose husband is a psychiatrist at Walter Reed Hospital; Mrs. M. W. Smith, whose husband is with the Vick Chemical Company of New York; W. W. Driskell, Jr., of Brunswick, and Lieut. M. Morgan Driskell, a doctor at the Naval Air Base, Pensacola. She has five grandchildren.

Eva (Lawson) Neel knits for the Red Cross in Thomasville. Her daughter, Emily, A.B. '27, teaches in the high school in Thomasville and does defense work from 8 to 12 P.M.

The following, written some time ago about Wesleyan, she recently found in her scrapbook:

WESLEYAN REFLECTIONS

*Backward turn thy wheels, O Time, thy flight delay!
Make us "college girls" again, just for today.
Dust off the pictures on memory's wall
As the friends of Wesleyan days we recall.
We revel in the memory of old friendships,
Again see sweet smiles that played on young lips.
Bright faces appear—sweet voices speak—
We feel tender handclasps, the touch of a cheek.*

*Friends of Alma Mater . . . shall we forget? Never!
Their golden chains of love shall bind us to them ever.*

RETROSPECTION

*We fill this cup to other days,
And drink to girls of other ways
To whom old Wesleyan was dear.
Her halls resounded with good cheer,
Especially at evening time
When hearts were merry as a rhyme.
Gas festoons draped the chandeliers
In the spacious parlors of those years.
Swell parties . . . yet, no boys on hand
For Wesleyan was "No Man's Land"!*

A New York paper recently carried the story of the dramatic escape of Adelaide (Chen) Young from Hongkong as the Japanese siege began there in December. Adelaide described her experiences in a letter to her mother, Mrs. Ming Tai Chen of New York, and her sister, Gloria Chen, of the Wesleyan class of 1942. Adelaide's husband is Jack Theodore Chen, who has guided two Tibetan expeditions for the American Museum of Natural History, and is believed to be in Chungking at present as liaison officer of the Chinese government. Adelaide's five-year-old daughter, Jacqueline, is in New York with her family, and has been posing for campaign photographs for Chinese relief.

When Dot DuPuis returned from Atlanta recently she was so enthusiastic about a "class reunion" there that we asked her to write it up. She says:

"As a definite proof that the 'spirit of '38' is still very much alive, the week-end of February 28 saw twelve Wesleyannes in a reunion in Atlanta. Three of the twelve were not actually '38'ers, but close enough to claim kin anyway. The enthusiastic gang included the following:

Dot Wink, who is manager of a chain of picture shows in Dalton; Virginia Percy, doing secretarial work at the Motor Transport School in Conley; Joe Estes, secretary at Draughan's Business School in Atlanta; Helen Barnes, teacher of history, civics, and economics in Avondale; Mary Jim Peters (Mrs. S. L. Taylor of Manchester), now the proud mother of a five-months-old daughter, Virginia; Lib Brogden (now Mrs. Henry Tart, Jr., of Jacksonville, Fla.), whose son, David, is two years old; Bobbie Ponder (Mrs. Fred Smith, Jr.), living on Emory Drive in Atlanta; Martha Beaty, who only recently became the bride of Lieut. Homer Ray and will live in Petersburg, Va.; Faye Ponder, attending business college in Atlanta; Jo Langdon, working at the Coca-Cola plant in Atlanta; Helen Majors, who is secretary at Squibb and Company in Atlanta; Dot DuPuis, teaching physical education at Wesleyan.

"Headquarters for the week-end were 1300 Ponce de Leon Avenue, where Shiny, Joe, Jo, Faye and Helen are living. The social activities included a luncheon and banquet honoring Bobbie, who had just married. One can easily imagine the amount of talking that was done! It was a wonderful week-end, and the best part of it all is that plans were made for another reunion in July. This time it will be in the form of a house party at Jacksonville Beach."

Elizabeth (Bowers) Bowen has moved from Royston to West Point, where her husband is in the insurance business. Elizabeth is a popular member of the Junior Civic League, and already has many friends in her new home.

Marthelle (Morris) Harpe has a little daughter, Martha Elsie, born March 2 in Dublin. The baby is the granddaughter of Mary Lou (Newton) Morris, of the class of 1916.

LUCILLE FOSTER McMILLIN

Lucille Foster McMillin, who delighted Wesleyan alumnae as their speaker for the Centennial celebration in 1936, and who was made an Honorary member of the Alumnae Association at that time, was the subject of a sketch in Harper's Bazaar for February, 1942. With her picture was this statement:

"Lucille Foster McMillin, since 1933 one of the three United States Civil Service Commissioners, was born in Louisiana. At 20 she married Governor McMillin of Tennessee, who later became Minister to Peru and then to Guatemala. On her return from nine years abroad, she entered public life herself. As more and more women go into government employ, the work of her department quadruples, but she holds the reins serenely, an impressive Southern gentlewoman with a charming manner and a cultivated, throaty voice, result of her training in dramatic reading which she used to do professionally. She says she keeps house by remote control and keeps fit by watching her diet."
